BOATING SAFETY PRESENTATION

This presentation is aimed to educate young people about safe and enjoyable boating and demonstrate the most important safety equipment for boating, focussing on life jackets. I am sure this presentation will be of interest to the students.

BUSY MAKING PIKELETS

Early Stage 1 and Stage 1 have been learning about mixtures and how materials mix together to form a new substance.

Chat with the Chappie

Empathy is a skill that needs to be mastered. It does not just come naturally. When listening to friends, family or our kids, the usual 'go to' response is problem solving. When people share their problems, we want to fix them!

Empathy is like a key, it unlocks the sharers feelings and emotions, and often helps them solve their own problems! So what is empathy?

Empathy is...

- The ability to understand and share the feelings of another.
- It's about saying 'I think I understand how this feels to you and you're not alone.'
- Sitting with or 'being with' a person in their pain.

I can assure you that if you learn to use empathy with your kids, your relationship will be more open, more connected and so much healthier (particularly through those teen years!). So how can we use empathy with our kids?

It's about letting your child know that they're loved for who they are.

1. Taking his/her perspective: Putting aside your own feelings and reactions to see the situation through your child's eyes.
2. Putting aside judgment: Not jumping to and expressing conclusions about your child's situation.
3. Understanding your child's feelings: Use your own experiences to try and remember a time when you felt the same way; all the while remembering that your child's experiences are their own.
4. Communicating that you understand: Let your child express themselves without trying to get in and fix the problem. Use phrases like, 'It sounds like...' or 'I hear that you...'

This week, when they get home from school, try using empathy as you hear how their day went. You might be surprised at the outcome.

As always, if you have questions or concerns please feel free to contact me on 0422 523 896. I'm available at the school on Mondays and Thursdays. Kath ☺
